Dear Sir / Mdm,

Good day to you.

I am Koh Qinghui, the HOD/Chinese Language from Hong Wen School.

The school has held our annual Chinese Language and Cultural Fortnight from 4 February to 15 February this year. It is our school practice to identify a theme for this annual event and this year, we centred upon the theme of "Singapore Bicentennial", to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the arrival of Sir Stamford Raffles in Singapore as well as to spark our students' interest in Singapore's history through a series of engaging activities.

I had the opportunity to visit the "New World, New Life" Exhibition held at SCCC last year. I really appreciate the amount of thinking and effort that went into the conceptualization and the research of content for this exhibition. And I must mention the interactive exhibits have elevated the visitors' experience to a whole new level. I was even more pleasantly surprised to find out that Hong Wen School was featured in one of the galleries under 'Education'. With this, I thought how well it blended with our theme and how apt if I were to bring along my students to visit the exhibition as part of their learning journey and cultural experience for our CLC Fortnight this year.

My team and I went down to the SCCC to have a recce trip and we were lucky enough to meet Yuqing who has kindly provided her assistance to facilitate our visit over 3 days from 11 February to 13 February. She has also generously shared the Docent Guide with me, so that my teachers and I could read up and prepare in advance. We brought our P6 cohort over to view the exhibition and they were intrigued by the exhibits. The floating hell experience was a memorable one for them, it was always the common feedback given when I asked how they find the exhibition. My teachers gave very positive comments too as visiting the exhibition has been an educational one for them as well, having had the opportunity to learn about how our Chinese community, especially the unsung heroes have contributed to the building of our nation. As for my organizing committee, it has been truly inspirational for us and we were able to share our learning with the school and even adapt some of the ideas into our recess carnival games.

Lastly, I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation for Yuqing who have gone the extra mile to render her assistance, for without which, our learning journey could not have made possible. I would also like to affirm the SFCCA team, especially the hands and brains behind the exhibition — kudos for a job well-done! You have created a wonderful experience for the visitors and also started off a positive ripple effect for us in schools! Please continue the good work and I look forward to the opportunities that we can collaborate again in the future.

This letter of commendation is long overdue and I wish you every success as the exhibition enters its last lap.

Sincere Regards,
Koh Qinghui
